

Walk around an area which is important to you.

Describe what you can see, hear and smell. This will help you to write real, believable settings.

It could also give you an exciting idea for a story!

